

Note: A lot of these organizations are not specifically vegan, but have a sustainability focus or fight current practices in factory farming. Vegan organizations are starred.

This is far from an exhaustive list. For more ideas, I recommend you check out The Vegetarian Resource Group's list of organizations:

<http://www.vrg.org/blog/2013/07/12/jobs-opportunities-that-contribute-to-the-greater-good/>

Health

Physicians Committee for Responsible Medicine

- Location: Washington, D.C.
- Summary of organization's work: They work to educate people about the health benefits of veganism, advocate for policies against animal testing, and hope to make nutrition a more central part of the medical field.
- Website: <http://www.pcrm.org/about/careers/career-opportunities>;
<http://www.pcrm.org/about/about/internships>
- Types of jobs you might be able to find: research, policy, administrative, communications, development, HR, finance

NutritionFacts.org

- Location: It appears that the website is run remotely.
- Summary of organization's work: This is Dr. Michael Greger's website. Its purpose is to keep the public educated on findings in the field of nutrition.
- Website: <https://nutritionfacts.org/employment/>; <https://nutritionfacts.org/internships/>
- Types of jobs you might be able to find: writing, graphic design, donation management

Food & Water Watch

- Location: They have offices in Washington D.C. and Baltimore and around the country.
- Summary of organization's work: It doesn't appear that they are a vegan organization, but their goal is to fight for healthy food and clean water. They are against corporate power in the food industry and fight unhealthy practices in factory farming.
- Website: <https://www.foodandwaterwatch.org/about/careers>;
<https://www.foodandwaterwatch.org/internships>
- Types of jobs you might be able to find: data, campaign management, legal, communications, HR, finance, policy, research, IT, web development

Center for Food Safety

- Location: Their headquarters is in D.C., but they also have offices in California and Oregon.

- Summary of organization's work: They are not a vegan organization but they do seek to eliminate factory farming. Overall, they try to fight general health concerns such as pesticides, GMOs, chemicals, and antibiotics in food.
- Website: <http://centerforfoodsafety.com/jobs>
- Types of jobs you might be able to find: legal, communications, policy, campaign management, outreach, scientific consulting

Environment

Southern Environmental Law Center

- Location: Headquartered in Charlottesville, but has offices around the globe (including Richmond and D.C.)
- Summary of organization's work: They work to strengthen laws that protect the environment and fight legislation that could destroy it.
- Website: <https://www.southernenvironment.org/about-selc/careers>
- Types of jobs you might be able to find: legal, administrative, IT, communications

The Nature Conservancy

- Location: They have an office in Charlottesville and in northern Virginia, and other offices around the country.
- Summary of organization's work: They work with multiple societal sectors to conserve our natural resources.
- Website: <https://www.nature.org/about-us/careers/index.htm?intc=nature.tnav.about>; <https://www.nature.org/about-us/careers/internships/index.htm>
- Types of jobs you may be able to find: conservation, administrative, policy, data, communications, fundraising, scientific, IT

National Resources Defense Council

- Location: They have an office in D.C. and other offices around the country.
- Summary of organization's work: They work with lawyers, scientists, policymakers, and organizations around the country to protect our planet. They appear to be similar to The Nature Conservancy but have some additional focus areas, including food. They are definitely not a vegan organization, but they do advocate a shift to plant based eating and measures to make factory farming less environmentally damaging.
- Website: <https://www.nrdc.org/careers>
- Types of jobs you may be able to find: research, communications, HR, fundraising, administrative, grant writing, IT, legal, web design, campaign management, scientific

- Location: They have offices around the world, including in D.C. They also offer remote positions in Virginia and Maryland.
- Summary of organization's work: They build grassroots campaigns focused on clean energy.
- Website: <https://350.org/jobs/>
- Types of jobs you may be able to find: communications, campaign management, organizing, finance, design, administrative, fundraising, HR

Feasibility

Good Food Institute

- Location: Their headquarters is in Washington D.C., but staff members usually work remotely.
- Summary of organization's work: They work with leaders in the food industry to advocate for vegan alternatives to meat and dairy.
- Website: <http://www.gfi.org/jobs>
- Types of jobs you may be able to find: legal, communications, administrative, fundraising, website development, policy, research, business

Animal Advocacy

The Humane League

- Location: They have offices in D.C. and around the country. Most of their positions are remote.
- Summary of organization's work: They work to reduce animal suffering by reforming factory farming and advocating for compassionate eating.
- Website: <https://thehumaneleague.org/jobs/>
- Types of jobs you may be able to find: donor management, research, finance, campaign management, design, videography

Compassion Over Killing

- Location: They have an office in Takoma Park, Maryland (right next to D.C.) and an office in Los Angeles.
- Summary of organization's work: They fight animal abuse, especially in the agriculture industry. They also advocate for plant based eating.
- Website: <http://cok.net/jobs/>; <http://cok.net/act/intern/>
- Types of jobs you may be able to find: web design, legal, social media, graphic design, data, writing, project management/program coordination

Mercy for Animals

- Their headquarters is in Los Angeles but they frequently have remote positions available. They also have other offices around the world.
- Summary of organization's work: They work to protect animals in factory farming and advocate for a vegan diet.
- Website: <http://www.mercyforanimals.org/jobs>;
<http://www.mercyforanimals.org/internship>
- Types of jobs you may be able to find: administrative, fundraising, outreach, communications, legal, investigative

Alley Cat Allies

- Location: They have an office in Bethesda, Maryland, and job opportunities across the country.
- Summary of organization's work: They work to protect cats through grassroots and legal advocacy.
- Website: <https://www.alleycat.org/take-action/work-for-cats/>
- Types of jobs you may be able to find: data entry and database work, outreach, web management and development, communications, fundraising, writing, design, administrative